

The number that the side lengths of one figure can be multiplied by to give the corresponding side lengths of the other figure is called the scale factor.

